The Effective Enterprise PMO	18/19 Jan '10 The Hilton London Heathrow UK	EPMO, P30, PM Centre of Excellence – there are almost as many terms used to describe them as there are 'Enterprise PMOs'. This workshop will examine the role of 'Mission Control for projects', the central PM function, the hub of the organization's delivery capability, and an arm of the executive in securing its oversight of the management of the project portfolio. What makes for an "Effective EPMO"? What functions must it perform – source of best practice & methodology owner? Oversight of major projects? Management & development of PM resources? Governance of the portfolio? How should it best be shaped to match the culture of the organization? Senior speakers, drawn across a variety of sectors, will address these and related issues, whilst the results of a new survey will add further insights into what makes 'The Effective Enterprise PMO'.
Does the 'Dead Hand' of Project Management Stifle Innovation in R&D?	2 Mar '10 WEBINAR 90 minutes Dial-in times West Coast USA – 7.30 East Coast USA – 10.30 UK – 15.30 Central Europe – 16.30	How do the rigours of project management become applied to research and development environments? Does the need for innovation mean that extra flexibility is required, or do the processes of project management simply channel the outputs of the development process more effectively? Join this 90 minute webinar to share the experience of industry experts.
Is your Organization Ready for Change?	14 Apr '10 The Hilton London Heathrow UK	Understanding the context and environment into which projects must be delivered is an essential prerequisite to success. The benefits of change frequently lie in changing the behaviour of the 'victims of change'. Ensuring they are on your side has a huge impact on project outcomes.
Portfolio Management	18/19 May '10 Hosted by Ericsson AB, Stockholm Sweden	Executing projects to time, cost and quality, whilst ensuring that programs drive both benefits and customer satisfaction, may still not be enough if we have not optimized our overall portfolio. Worse still, our chances of managing projects efficiently and programs effectively are significantly reduced if portfolio issues such as strategic alignment and enterprise resource management and development are neglected. This workshop analyses trends and current thinking in portfolio management, investigating what 'world class' practices look like and how organizations can gear up to achieve them.

Harnessing the Power of your Sponsor	22/23 Jun '10 The Hilton London Heathrow UK	Human Systems' research demonstrates that in areas such as project resourcing, resolution of issues and benefit delivery, the influence of the sponsor far exceeds that of the project manager. Yet, many sponsors do not see themselves as being part of the project delivery organization. How can project and program managers harness the power of their sponsors to help them deliver project benefits on time, budget, and scope.
Driving out the Risks - Back to Basics!	Sept '10 London UK	Risk management in projects is a much talked about and vital process, yet practices vary widely. Risk identification at start-up is not enough; the management of risk must be a continual process. Why is it that 'the risk that happens' is never on the risk register?
High Performance People in High Performance Project Teams	Jan '11 London UK	High performing projects result from high performing teams and high performing people. This workshop takes the opportunity to explore the hierarchy of performance that leads to project success, with a focus on professional competence, the development of teams, and the role of project academies – at all levels of the organization.

Human Systems' workshops are available for members of Human Systems' network or 'by invitation'.
